5. Known Bugs and Issues

Data does not persist between the application going down and then back up. There is no easy way to set up a database on an end-user machine. This application would ideally be deployed to a website where the database management is set up for every end-user.